

What Is Contract Governance

HOW IT WORKS AND WHY

Optimal organisational performance for service providers and purchasers requires successful management of contractual relationships. This requires a professional contract governance model applicable across a broad range of contract relationships.

Organisational management theory and practice has not produced such a model.

The Burke Four Pillars Model™ is designed to fill this important gap in management thinking.

Melbourne • Canberra • Sydney • Brisbane • Perth

The benefits of this contract governance model include:

- One contract governance model for service provider and purchaser
- Lower transaction costs in contract relationships for both parties
- Better contract and organisational performance
- Integration of contract governance with organisational governance
- Identification of the skills, tools and systems required for contract governance
- Emphasis on co-operative behaviour and how to achieve it in contract relationships
- Emphasis on interests (not legal rights) driven model for negotiation in contract disputes
- Improves organisational governance
